THE ARE INSURRECTION.

Will simultaneously proclamation and open the Superintendent of Arms to State corporation organized with the coming issue of "citizens and Union corporation." There was no dealing to plaintiffs or bearing about the bank; the resolution adopted showed a clear perception of the real danger and a resolute purpose to secure the necessary reform. The language used is:

We are opposed to organized and armed bodies of men to intimidate the public peace and to disturb the social order, and to all such demonstrations and attempts to subvert the authority of the State; and to the extent of the power vested in us by the laws of the State, we will use the same to suppress all such unlawful proceedings, and to bring the offenders to justice.

The subject is treated as the foremost element or factor in the labor problem. It is interwoven with, as if inseparable from, vested rights, lawful proceedings, and the freedom of trade. The Ohio Republican State Convention adopted substantially the same resolution, and unless the members are specially out of appearance some attention will be paid to the matter during the first session of the Fiftieth Congress. The present law to elevate a local union, and arrest if carried out thoroughly would fall far short of meeting the requirements of the case. The existing act goes only to the extent of punishing importation, while the Chinese laws aim to stop out of the country all really undesirable foreigners, whether they come under the head of importation or immigration. This is a natural departure from the hitherto accepted theory of this country, and it is not to be supposed that the Republicans of these States made the declaration without appreciating the fact. It needs to be seen or two plainly understood, both in this country and throughout Europe, that the United States is no longer an asylum for the scum of the Old World. The agreement of all nations are welcome to our shores, and to property qualifications are as much as thought of. Poverty is not a bar to American hospitality, but when it comes to emptying upon our heads the screwed, diseased, and it is high time to enter an emphatic protest, and, if need be, energetic be responsible barrier to the entry of a delegation against the landing at any of our American ports of persons coming under the head of convicts, paupers, or criminals.

OUR RAILWAYS AND THE STATE PEOPLES.

It is now more than a week since The Tribune published the letter addressed to Governor by Mr. Depew, giving his reasons for declining to accept the office of State-prison agent. Unfavorably has received much and for no comment. It was exactly within the scope of the Governor's power to make the change, and Mr. Depew' long term of service gave him no claim upon the place. But as his letter to the Governor in response to the request for his resignation implies rather a specific charge, which is too grave and too direct to be passed over in silence. We have waited several days before calling special attention to the matter, hoping that the Governor would make a specific and categorical denial, but as yet he has made no explicit statement upon the subject.

According to England letter the Governor approves the letter and accepts that it was necessary. Higbee chose to present out to the Governor at the time that letter to the cost of State printing would be about quadrupled. The exact language of the letter is:

The estimate quoted that I would receive about $25,000 for the time employed in printing the laws and reports of the State, and that the cost of printing the laws and reports of the State, and that the cost of printing the laws and reports of the State, and that the cost of
